DESCRIPTION:
Each capsule contains L-methylfolate, which is an active form of folate along with Pyridoxal 5 Phosphate and Cyanocobalamin that allow the body to help address and improve the symptoms of diabetic nerve damage such as pain, numbness, and uncomfortable tingling.
L-methylfolate: The use of supplemental requirements for this vitamin. Folic Acid administration may reduce the risk of neural tube defects in the developing fetus.
Pyridoxal 5 Phosphate: Helps protein metabolism, along with the maintenance of the nervous and immune systems.
Cyanocobalamin: Is often called the 'red vitamin' because it is required for regulating blood cells. Cyanocobalamin is a complex molecule; its common name, cobalamin reflects the presence of the mineral cobalt in the center of its structure. As with other B vitamins, Cyanocobalamin helps build the material that makes up our genetic blueprint; our DNA. It is also particularly important in the production of red blood cells and in maintaining a healthy nervous system. Cyanocobalamin also helps release energy from our food. A further important role of Cyanocobalamin is to act in conjunction with folic acid (another B vitamin) in the synthesis of the amino acid.
